

This course will not require the purchase of a paper text. We will use an online text whose producers request a nominal donation. (Some other sections of the course may use a traditional text – your reading assignments will not be identical to those of students in other instructors' sections).

Our text is available here: <http://openstaxcollege.org/>

Click the "our books" link and then go to the "Biology" (not "Concepts of Biology") book.

As you navigate through the links you will come to various options for accessing the book, including downloading the entire beast. At one point you will be asked for a donation, but no donation is required. The producers request only a $10 donation whereas a typical paper textbook would be well over $100. I hope you will make at least the minimum donation but I will not know who does and who does not.

If you choose to download the book I recommend the high resolution version.
